Welcome to the far future, a time when physics based puzzle platforming has led to a new way of life. You play as Phat Stack - a creature that has crashed in to Earth, you must now discover how to survive by finding 4 Energy Crystals to save yourself. It's up to you to complete 8 ever increasingly difficult puzzles by finding the 4 Energy Crystals to save your life. Once all the platforms have been destroyed your little green friend will be destroyed. Song is Copyright to the rightful owners. Hey folks! My best weekend gaming ever! This is a really cool challenge for any gamer of all time! What if you had to speedrun in 2 different games, while playing on the same gamepad and while switching between two different controllers, using different settings for each game? This is pretty amazing! Here is my full speedrun of Tetris HD on the Xbox 360! WARNING! This video is a two hour long, so prepare yourself before watching! I only had one controller on me, so I used the mouse to control my cursor instead. Note that I forgot to switch the gamepad, so sometimes I use it by mistake. Gamepad: g... If you want to make the second place, send me a second email with an additional screenshot and proof of your abilities and I'll see if I can add it! ►Play the game here! [ ] Hello and welcome to the first ever Brotherhood of Secret Apostles speedrun competition! This is a competition where we are all old school speedrunners that are still active in the scene and have been playing old school games for years. The idea is that we all run our respective games full speed and submit the video of us playing, seeing which one of us can beat it the fastest. In this competition we are all tasked to beat A classic game called Turmoil II from the '80s! This is a game I have been playing on the Amiga for ages and it has been very useful to me on many occasions when trying to go to very fast speeds to beat a game! There is a second place prize for the runner who gets second place this time, but the jackpot prize is up for grabs! The winner of this competition will be able to get a custom Amiga A1200 with a custom programming set of ROMs made to run a SNES emulator! You can check out all

What's new in VaporFly:

[Gauntlet of Galious] The GM vs. the Players feature (GvG) is back! This time, Kor, Zak, and Ealth have pitched in to man the devices of oppression! It's a spooktacular... Five parts to a good quest; 1 - In the first open the adventure was kicked off with the cat at manse. And there, on a table, was what Zak had been waiting to find ever since he started working here; a quill with a carving in the tip, "M". The player was given a task to decipher the letter "M" into "-eur- -eur" or "-eur+"- 2 - After a 10 minute skirmish in the attic the player receives a buzz. buzz is a long way away from the Amstrad GX4. By swiping the stylus over the screen of the VTC40, and then using the pen top in a wheel or planer it could be used to drill into walls, or scrape into wood and metal to hone in with. 3 - the player was given a quest to decode the all-important letter "M" in a rather unorthodox manner. It was like Ealth was meddling with an encryption algorithm, less-than-positively. Kor and Zak dispatched the player in the loft to cover his friend, the cat who was being sick as can be. After solving the "star encoded" puzzle the player was faced with no choice to open one of the armory rooms, but rather had to drag the corpulent cat, yes, even corpulent the player could see the detail on a cat that big. And he's squeezing the chest, he's on his back, his whiskers are twitching, he's trying to stand up. the player had to find a cardboard box of old leather shoes, and then wanted to pet the cat. But he finds something unusual with the arm-talons, they contain a strange metallic dust. Next to the crate was a 4 hour time capsule, and a ward, and Kor finally reveals why he wanted the player to come back inside: "Incredible. Remarkable. I wasn't sure until now, but the proof is impressive", as he draped the item over his arm. "This will show us if S-x-n-i is still safe and whole. What do you make of it?" After
